Paul Davis Restoration and Remodeling Denver West to donate toy restoration for The Action Center, Dec. 12-17

Denver, Colo. – November 30, 2011 – Greg Makowski, owner of Paul Davis Restoration and Remodeling of Denver West, has announced that his company along with The Action Center will team up this year to collect used and new stuffed animals for The Action Center's Santa Shop. Using the technologically advanced Esporta Wash System, Paul Davis Denver West will restore donated stuffed animals to near-new condition. Makowski is inviting the local community to bring in gently used stuffed animals to bring some joy to less fortunate children in Denver. The office will also accept new toys as donations. Items may be delivered Monday through Friday from 8 am until 4 pm to 5150 Havana Street, Ste. F in Denver.

The Action Center's Santa Shop will provide the stuffed toys to more than 5,000 underprivileged children this holiday season from December 12 to December 17. The program helps struggling residents and the homeless of Jefferson County. The Santa Shop is a place where parents come to "shop" free of cost for toys to give to their children over the holidays - toys that they would have otherwise not been able to afford. Many of the parents are forced to make the difficult decision between toys and putting food on the table, and The Action Center helps to alleviate the added stress on already fragile finances during the holidays.

Paul Davis is donating the cleaning of the toy items with the patented Esporta Wash System which is designed to recover soft contents from fire and water disasters using a wet-wash process. The Esporta is an industrial grade machine which is capable of cleaning smoke, soot bacteria, sewage water, mold and bio-waste contaminated contents to a food grade level. Items that can be cleaned include items like clothing and shoes, linens and draperies, leather goods, athletic gear including ice skates, helmets and padding, stuffed animals and toys, sleeping bags, and other bulky items. The wash system cleans, deodorizes and restores more than 85 percent of all textiles and leather goods.

"We are proud to help those in need in our community and ask everyone to join us in our efforts to collect toys for children during the holidays," said Makowski. "As a long-time Denver company, Paul Davis Denver West supports the community and its residents," he said.
