Paul Davis Restoration presents awards to fire safety art project winners at Burton Elementary

Vancouver, WA – Portland, OR (Dec. 21, 2011) - Paul Davis Restoration along with Vancouver Fire Department officials and Evergreen Public School Foundation board members recently awarded students attending Burton Elementary School with prizes as a result of winning a fire safety awareness art contest. Students received pencils, fire hats, and stickers. The kindergarten student who won the grand prize received a dress-up fire coat and personal protective equipment needed to fight a fire.

The theme of the student artwork campaign was “Take Safety Home” and required students to submit full color artwork related to smoke alarms and other fire prevention themes. During the month of October, Paul Davis staff along with fire department and school district volunteers offered speaking engagements and school assembly programs to students in kindergarten, and third through fifth grades in the District.

The community service project featured 15 minute presentations focused on fire prevention called, “Get Out-Stay Out”. Volunteers visited classrooms and read “No Dragons for Tea” and discussed fire safety concepts in a fun, interactive way with the students. Each school that participated was presented with a free copy of “No Dragons for Tea” for the school library compliments of Paul Davis. As part of fire prevention education, Paul Davis also provided each student with a coloring page and a temporary tattoo. The contest was launched to include a prize for the best coloring page.

Specifically, Paul Davis participated in the fire safety awareness campaign with students who were enrolled in the district’s October Fire Safety curriculum and the new Community Risk Reduction strategy along with a community-wide focus on smoke alarms and home escape planning. Students also received a “Home Escape Planning Grid” to help them develop a plan with their family. For more information, contact Natalie Parsons at 360.823.1388 or email nparsons@pdr-usa.net.
