Paul Davis Restoration hires project manager in Middle Tennessee

Nashville, TN – October 18, 2010 - Rob Drexler and Chuck Wallace, Paul Davis Restoration of Middle Tennessee office owners, recently announced that Michael Ray Hines, Jr. has joined the office as Project Manager. Hines will be responsible for estimating and overseeing jobs in residential and commercial restoration and remodeling, clean up and reconstruction of property damage from water, fire, smoke, vandalism, and mold insurance claim losses. The restoration office is located at 1146 Antioch Pike in Nashville and serves customers in Davidson, Williamson, Rutherford, Sumner, Wilson, Robertson and Cheatham counties.

Paul Davis is a leading provider of fire, water and mold damage restoration services for residential and commercial properties.

Hines grew up in the Middle Tennessee area. He lives in Murfreesboro with his wife and two sons. Hines is a licensed plumber with more than 17 years of experience in residential construction and remodeling. He started and owned a remodeling company and is also skilled in the insurance restoration industry, customer service and claims. Hines attended Nashville Tech and studied construction management.

Hines holds certifications as a disaster field inspector with the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency (TEMA) and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). He is certified as an American Home Builders Association (AHBA) Level II carpenter. Hines is also certified from the Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration Certification (IICRC) in fire, smoke and water damage.

“We are very pleased that Mike has joined our team,” said Drexler. “When faced with water, fire, smoke, vandalism, and mold damage, our customers know they can rely on Paul Davis to stabilize their property and quickly begin the process of restoring their lives back to normal.”
