Paul Davis' Tim Hughey completes certification as an Applied Microbial Remediation Technician

Cashiers/Highlands, NC – April 4, 2011 – Tim Hughey, co-owner and general manager of Paul Davis Emergency Services in Cashiers and Highlands, NC, has completed advanced training with The Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration Certification (IICRC). Hughey is now certified as an Applied Microbial Remediation Technician (AMRT) in restoration and remodeling. He recently attended the certification class which was taught by The Cleaner's Coach training in Norcross, GA.

Specifically, to complete the AMRT certification, Hughey studied topics including mold remediation in schools and commercial buildings; mold in the workplace; assessment and remediation of fungi in indoor environments; toxic molds and indoor air quality; fungal contamination, investigation, remediation and control, and bioaerosols assessment and control, among others.

Hughey is also certified by the IICRC in Applied Structural Drying (ASD) and fire and smoke damage mitigation. Additionally, he recently attended a course provided by Paul Davis Restoration in partnership with vendors Thermastor and Phoenix restoration equipment which focused on the latest technologies in structural drying.
